VEHICLE MANAGEMENT SYSTEM USING SALESFORCE

Vehicle management

Land transport

water transport

Air transport

Land transporting an important role in transporting. Goods over short and long distances transporting. Land transport are cheaper to build and maintain compared to other modes of transportation. Farms, factories and markets can be easily connected through the transport system.

water transport is an important form of passenger and cargo transportation in india . Water transport is the most suitable for transporting heavy and bulky goods from one country to another.

Air transport is fast , cost-effective, modern and convenient mode of transport. Air transport provides connectivity at national, regional and international levels. Air transport build high cost.

road transport

railway transport

pipeline transport

TWO TYPES WATER TRANSPORT . There are
1.Inland water transport.
2.Sea transport

The Government of india operates an airline called air india.Indian airlines provides domestic transportation services and air india provides international transpotation services.

Road plays an impotant role in transporting passengers and goods over short and long distances. It suitable for, short medium and long distance services.

The indian railway system is the main lifeline of the country's domestic transport. Railways contribute to ecomics growth by meeting the demand for very high volumes of passenger and freight traffic.It is also considered as the backbone of the indian land transport system.

pipeline transport has served as the easiest and most efficient mode of transportation to connect oil and natural gas fields and oil refineries connect with their market areas.Earlier these were used to supply water to cities and industries.